Stephen W. Kett

Stephen Kett & Associates LLC

Graduate of the University of Vermont (B.A. 1976) and Harvard University (M.A. 1986), Steve's work centers today on strategy consulting for small- to mid-size U.S. businesses, as well as executive coaching and executive education on leadership development for larger companies around the world.

After graduate school, Steve decided to make a change from a planned academic career. Accordingly, Steve left Harvard and joined the Boston office of the strategy consulting firm Bain & Company. After several years in Boston, Steve moved to Washington, D.C., where he joined The Advisory Board Company, a best practices research and publishing company, as head of new product development. Ultimately, Steve spent almost 18 years at The Advisory Board designing, launching, and leading several highly-successful executive education and leadership development programs for nurses, physicians, and high-potential administrators from hospitals and health systems across the United States and internationally.

In 2009, Steve launched his own executive education and consulting practice.

Steve lives in Great Falls, VA, with his wife Amy and his twin sons John and Andrew.
