

Reid Yoder

Special Projects Strategist, BayCare Health System

Reid Yoder is a Special Projects Strategist for BayCare Health System in Clearwater, Florida. His early career began while still attending Indiana Wesleyan University where he joined a small healthcare tech startup, Radiation Oncology Resources, in 2010. While pursuing a degree in biology and business administration, Reid worked with a small team of medical physicists and dosimetrists to create one of the first EMR/treatment planning QA software programs to be brought to market. He aided in the development of multiple oncology-based software solutions and training systems. In 2014, Reid joined BayCare Health System. He holds a business management degree from Indiana Wesleyan University.