Matthew K. Doonan, Esq.

General Counsel Inspira Health

Matt Doonan has been Inspira Health's General Counsel for the past seven years. He has spent the majority of his career exclusively serving as in-house counsel to hospitals and hospital systems, advising the board and management on a wide variety of legal matters, strategic matters, and on corporate governance matters. Prior to joining Inspira Health, he was in-house counsel at Trinity Health, which was formerly Catholic Health East.

Before that, he was in-house counsel for The Cooper Health System, a large academic medical and trauma center in Camden, New Jersey. He also was in private practice at a regional South New Jersey law firm focusing on commercial litigation and corporate transactions. He holds a Bachelor of Arts from Loyola University Maryland and a law degree from Rutgers University School of Law. Following his graduation from law school, he served in a clerkship for the Hon. Steven J. Bernstein, J.S.C.
